RARE DISEASE EDUCATIONAL SUPPORT PROGRAM

What is the purpose of this program?

The Rare Disease Education Support Program is designed to offer rare disease patients, their families and/or caregivers an opportunity to participate in educational programs and conferences that offer rare disease content. NORD's program provides financial support for registration costs and limited assistance with associated travel and lodging costs for conference participation).

Interested applicants may apply for financial assistance to advance their knowledge, participate in collaborative opportunities, network with peers, medical professionals, researchers, advocacy groups and subject matter leaders.

As the saying goes, knowledge is power. It is vital that people directly impacted by the more than 7,000 rare diseases are armed with the knowledge and information they need to live their best lives while managing their rare condition. One of the pillars of NORD's mission is educating patients and caregivers to advocate for themselves so they can gain access to accurate diagnoses, clinical research, quality care and treatments.

Who is eligible to apply?

This program is designed for those diagnosed with a rare disease and immediate family/caregivers.

- The applicant or applicant's family member must be diagnosed with or under consideration for diagnosis of a recognized rare disease.
- The applicant(s) must be a US citizen or permanent resident of the US for at least 6 months.

Assistance is based on eligibility criteria and funding availability.
